CONFERENCE ROOMS AND CONVENTION HALLS

Bora Headquarters - Raubling (Germany)

Raubling, Germany - BORA, the company that invented the cooktop extractor systems for kitchens in private homes and restaurants, recently moved into its new office building in Raubling, Bavaria. The building's remodelling was assigned after finding a winning architect with an architectural competition. The building was completely rebuilt with resource-saving construction in mind, an intelligent façade was constructed, and a 9th floor was added. On the top floor, a multifunctional room was integrated, which also functions as a staff canteen. BORA uses the space for product presentations, but external companies use it for their purposes as well. To give the room the sound possibilities and maximise its diverse usage, BORA founder Willi Bruckbauer and the installation company Musik Mayer GmbH & Co KG from Aiging in Chiemgau (Germany) decided on a sound system from RCF.

The system delivers excellent performance for background sound in everyday lunchtime operations and party/band sound in the performance range. Quite unusual but induced by the events taking place, a compact line array system consisting of 2x4 HDL 26-A components was permanently installed in the ceiling. Further 2x2 HDL 26-A components, also mounted in the ceiling, serve as a delay array. 3x TTS 15-A subwoofers (frontal) are used as bass clusters. All RCF components are perfectly matched and work seamlessly together. The system is monitored via RCF's RDNet system.

BORA Managing Director Willi Bruckbauer comments on the top location and the sound equipment being used: "Our requirement for the PA system for the BORA "Hälzyba" on the ninth floor was multifunctional usability: RCF's PA systems promise perfect, clear sound both during staff lunchtimes and in support of product presentations and events. They already demonstrated their capabilities during our Inspiration Days in June. And before that, the sound machine had already generated enthusiasm at our Christmas party. Another important fact; the design meets our demand for excellent style. All in all, that's why we are currently equipping another room with an RCF system." Rupert Meyer from Musik Mayer is also pleased with the successful integration: "Every time I visit BORA, I am always pleased with the system. It is very present in the background (at minimum volume) when the employees are having lunch. Even at these low input levels, there is no background noise or anything like that. At occasional parties with small bands or DJs, the system is working with definitely more power, but even at high sound levels, it sounds very balanced and unaggressive."

The Opera Convention Center – Hai Phong (Vietnam)

Hai Phong, Vietnam - The prestigious The Opera Convention Center recently opened its doors, aiming to establish itself as a premier venue for international-class artistic performances, conventions, and large-scale weddings. Committed to excellence in sound and lighting, The Opera Convention Center selected advanced audio solutions from the renowned Italian manufacturer RCF, known for their superior sound quality, reliability, and exceptional coverage capabilities.

The new audio installation, expertly handled by ProAVL—RCF's official distributor in Vietnam—features a robust lineup of RCF products, including 38 HDL 6-A compact line array modules. Known for their precise, detailed audio reproduction and powerful performance, the HDL 6-A systems provide consistent and accurate sound coverage throughout the venue, ensuring optimal acoustic experiences for every seat.

Complementing the line arrays, 12 SUB 8008-AS active subwoofers were strategically deployed, enhancing low-frequency reinforcement and delivering deep, impactful bass crucial for a wide variety of performances, from intimate concerts to dynamic theatrical productions. The inclusion of 12 ART 912-A active loudspeakers offers versatile stage monitoring and additional sound reinforcement, enabling flexible configuration tailored to specific event requirements.

PLACES OF WORSHIP

Church of St. Nikola Tavelić - Rijeka (Croatia)

The church, built in 1988 and designed by architect Magaš, has an unusual “protruding” form that resembles a dove or ark. After many years, the existing audio system of the church was outdated and produced poor sound quality, facing acoustic challenges due to the large concrete interior surfaces and decorative woodcuts.

To improve sound coverage and speech intelligibility, LAV Project proposed installing new RCF speakers. Four RCF L 2406T W speakers were installed above the altar to cover the congregation area, four RCF DM 41 B speakers in the apses above the seats and choir, two RCF MQ 80P W outdoor speakers above the entrance doors and an RCF MR 40 W control speaker in the sacristy.

The RCF L 2406T W is equipped with six 5” woofers and four 1” dome tweeters placed in front of the center woofers. This special design allows coherent dispersion of sound while minimizing echo. The wide horizontal coverage angle and controlled vertical dispersion enable correct sound reproduction over a wide area and help limit microphonics and reverberant sound. In order to improve the intelligibility of the speech on the speakers, we activated the speech filter.

All audio components are controlled by a rack cabinet in the sacristy. New cabling was also installed for all speaker positions. The installed speakers provide natural sound reproduction while blending in visually. The client was very pleased with the results. The new audio system delivers high-quality sound while respecting the church’s unique architecture and spiritual atmosphere.
